Welcome everyone to Trinity College's Winter term newsletter

We hope everyone is well and that everyone is looking forward to the Christmas break even if it is to catch up with TV and relax during the break. Christmas this year seems to be looking very different for everyone but I am sure we will all take it in our stride and create a magical time regardless.

Allotment update! Did you know that a beautiful creature we all know as MR & MRS Hedgehog are now endangered. So, our very clever staff and students have made a Home for a Hedgehog! This is a safe, cosy space that Hedgehogs can live in to keep them warm and comfy during the winter months.

Last month, students spent several days diving into the Diwali festival, learning all about the culture and what Diwali is all about. They enjoyed some different dishes associated with Diwali including some special sweets as a treat. They had a lot of fun designing their own Henna tattoos and having a go on staff members!

College Days – Construction

Some of our older students have been given a chance to learn some construction skills through a college course. They have all been very willing and have learnt some valuable skills during their time.

Exams

Well done to all the students who have taken their Level 1 Functional Skills exams and good luck on results!

REWARDS CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

The last day of term is going to give the students an opportunity to spend their earned reward money out in town.

Thank you once again for all for the continuous hard work over this year and commitment you have shown for our students. Hope you all enjoy the Christmas break and enjoy a well earned rest!

Take care and a very Merry Christmas

Rebecca Hill
